Wayne County Letting More Road Contracts

On Thursday of this week a contract was let for building seven miles of hard road between Wayne and Kenova. This makes a total of 13 miles in that direction. Work is progressing satisfactorily on the six miles already being built.

The final survey is being made for six or seven miles between Wayne and Fort Gay and the contract will be let next month. This will bring the road within five or six miles of Fort Gay. A survey is to start soon for a road to Mingo county.

FIND BIG STILL ON RICH CREEK. Sheriff H. H. Cyrus, of Wayne, accompanied by G. C. Hunter, Sam Kinister and John Sutphin captured a forty-gallon still and several hundred gallons of prepared mash on Rich creek, Wayne-co., about midway between East Lynn and Dunlow.

Sheriff Cyrus and Prosecuting Attorney Ferguson had for some time received intimations that a distillery was operating in that territory and proceeded to lay plans for discovering its location. Acting upon what appeared to be authentic information as to its whereabouts Sheriff Cyrus accompanied by the other officers went to Rich creek Tuesday night last week and found the still which was plainly an institution that had been operated for many months. The owners, evidently warned in advance, had disappeared and had, apparently, taken with them into safe hiding all the finished product.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The Lawrence Circuit Court will convene at Louisa next Monday for a term that is expected to last nearly or quite four weeks.

FLOYD COUNTY WILL ISSUE BONDS FOR GOOD ROADS

Floyd county on last Saturday voted favorably on a proposition to issue $250,000 in bonds to build good roads. The majority was 2000 or more, which is very large. This speaks loudly for the enterprise of old Floyd. Her citizens have awakened and intend to make the county a desirable place to live and a prosperous territory in which to do business.

The State and nation will add to this about $333,000, making a total fund of more than half a million dollars for good roads in Floyd county.

This completes the chain of Big Sandy counties from Boyd to Pike, except Lawrence, which is the missing link. Is it possible that we will persist in occupying such a position?

How About Lawrence?

The Lawrence Fiscal Court, now in session, has been asked to 'take the same step that other counties have taken in this matter, but the question has been deferred until Friday morning of this week. If our people will rise above the petty arguments and prejudices and look at this big business proposition with the broad view that it deserves they will not hesitate to go ahead and vote as large a bond issue as the law will permit.

It will help the oil development, the farmer, the merchant, and every business in the county. It is the only salvation. We can not keep within sight of the growth of our neighbor counties if we do not build good roads.

Let's vote a bond issue. The prosperity that will result from good roads will easily take care of the amount required annually to pay the interest and retire the bonds in thirty years.

The losing team will distribute a little over $3,000 each to its players.

LATER:—The Cincinnati team won the eighth game at Chicago Thursday. This gives them the championship of the world.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL OIL FIELD

The pipe line from the upper Blaine field will be completed Saturday of this week. Very soon thereafter the rich fluid will be flowing to market and the promising new field opened by the Union Gas & Oil Company will begin to bring gratifying returns to its developers. This is the day that has been looked forward to for several months.

A well good for 8 to 10 barrels per day has been drilled in on the Wm. Diamond farm now belonging to J. P. Garth. This well is three miles west of Louisa.

Also, well No. 3 on the Conley lease has been completed and is estimated to be good for 15 to 20 barrels. This is about a mile west of Potter station and four miles from Louisa.

The last well on the Linc Moore farm on Two Mile is better than the average of that locality.

J. N. Marcum and J. P. Gartin have sold a block of leases on Lick Creek and it is said they will be developed.

A number of drilling outfits are being shipped in here to push the development.

R. C. Burton, Lee Wetzel and W. C. Edwards have formed a drilling company. An outfit has been ordered, and they have contracts to drill two wells in the Blaine field.

The Carter Oil Company has purchased some leases in the Busseyville field.

Dr. W. W. Wray, Levi Jones and others have leased the 1500 acres belonging to the Endicotts near Peach Orchard and extending into Martin county. This is the tract on which there is a good gas well drilled six years ago by the Dollar Oil Company.

HERE FROM OHIO.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Large and little son, of Chillicothe, Ohio, were in Louisa Tuesday. They moved several years ago from Lawrence county to Ohio. Mr. Large visited here two years ago. This is Mrs. Large's first visit to Kentucky in nine years.

The Lawrence Fiscal Court is in session with a full attendance. Routine business is occupying the attention of the court.

STANLEY MAKES WARM REPLY TO ED. P. MORROW

By Thomas B. Cromwell

Pikeville, Ky., October 4.—Defending his administration as Governor of Kentucky against the attacks of Edwin P. Morrow, Republican candidate for that office, United States Senator Augustus Owensley Stanley, before a large audience in the Pike county courthouse this afternoon, delivered to Governor James D. Black's opponent a vigorous chastisement.

He made a vigorous defense of his acts and then held Morrow in ridicule. It was the most scathing speech that Stanley has delivered since when in his race four years ago he flayed the late Richard W. Knott.

Senator Stanley opened with the statement that his administration needed at this time no defense at his hands, declaring that the public of Kentucky, by their vote and in convention assembled, twice placed the seal of their approval upon that administration.

"Were I guilty of all the malfeasance in office that he told you about; were I as bad as he says I am, as wicked and corrupt and cruel, would the intelligent and discriminating electorate of Kentucky not long since have relegated me to the shades of private life?"

"Despite my sins, however, according to Morrow, for nearly 20 years I have continued to represent the voters of Kentucky. As I look about me on the floor of Congress and in the Senate they all are gone whom you called to high office except me, dead or defeated. The poor, foolish, beguiled public of Kentucky still continues to turn Ed down and turn me up."

Senator Stanley said that Mr. Morrow seeks support not because he is worthy, but because he says I am not worthy of it.

"He has not told you of anything he did," Stanley declared. "He has told you the things I did not do. The voters might excuse this effort to raise himself by dragging another down if he were a candidate against me, but he is running against James D. Black, not Stanley."

"Will he be any whiter by trying to blacken me. Show me the man or woman who forever is trying to cause him self or herself to be better by scandalizing everybody else in the neighborhood, and I will show you a common gossip, a person unfit to be Governor of Kentucky."

After having read excerpts from Morrow's Pikeville speech, wherein the Stanley administration was charged with wanton, reckless expenditure of public funds, and with fraudulent favoritism, resulting in the loss and waste of public money, Senator Stanley went into a lengthy explanation of the settlement of the Harkness tax case and the employment of attorneys to secure a settlement of the Bingham tax case.

He stated that he had for the past four years made a fight against allowing Auditors' agents and Sheriffs to collect back taxes.

He told of the defeat of House Bill 320 which would have deprived them of this right, asserting that it was beaten by the men who desired to continue this practice over his protest. He asked what legislation Morrow ever had advocated to protect the state in any way. Senator Stanley made the declaration that the Governor has no more authority to employ an attorney than any of his audience.

In further telling of the framing and passing of the inheritance tax law under his administration Senator Stanley paid a tribute to its author, Captain Reuben Hutchcraft, who, as a member of the Rainbow Division, met death in France.

Text Book Board Defended.

In discussion of the text books and the adoption by the commission he appointed, Senator Stanley said that Morrow had attacked only two books, the Grinstead Speller and Helzer's Physiology, both of which were written by Kentuckians and published by Kentuckians. He asked if Morrow counts it wrong for Kentuckians to write and publish books. He said that Morrow had attacked the Helzer Physiology only because of mistakes in grammar, and he compared Morrow's grammatical construction in the very speech in which the attack upon Helzer was made, provoking frequent laughter.

He concluded discussion of the book matter with the declaration that "if Helzer's mistakes have made Kentucky laugh, as Morrow claims they have, Morrow is preparing to add to the merriment of nations. There are more mistakes in one paragraph of Morrow than in a whole chapter of Helzer."

Senator Stanley asserted that Morrow, more than any other man, is responsible for the nonexistence today of a bipartisan Board of Control of Charitable Institutions. It was Morrow, he said, who went into Frankfort at midnight and organized a movement in the Legislature that resulted in the consolidation of the Prison Board and the Board of Control and caused the Republicans to lose their seats.

In conclusion Senator Stanley called upon Morrow to state his position on the League of Nations, saying: "In the dismantled homes all over Kentucky fathers and mothers by their lonely firesides are waiting for the footsteps of sons that never will return. They demand to know, and they have a right to know, Mr. Morrow, whether you stand for peace or for war; whether you stand with Woodrow Wilson for the peace of the world, or whether your lot is cast with Lodge and Knox and Johnson, those stone-age Senators. The question is bigger and broader than any. You cannot escape it. "Kentucky has elected Democrats and Kentucky has elected Republicans, but she has never rallied to the standard of a coward."

Governor Stanley spoke to-night at Prestonsburg to a larger crowd than he had here this afternoon. He was introduced here by Frank W. Stowers, candidate for Representative in the next General Assembly.

President is Recovering From Recent Illness

Slow but continued progress over a period of five days has brought such an improvement in President Wilson's condition that his physicians announced today that he was stronger than at any time since he was taken ill two weeks ago.

Unless something urgently requiring attention should develop it is the plan to continue his confinement to his room for the present and to insist that he take the opportunity for a real rest.

MURDERER'S DEATH SENTENCE AFFIRMED

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 5.—Delbert Thomas, slayer of Deputy Sheriff Richard Johnson, Harlan-co., April 7, 1919, must go to the electric chair for his crime. The Court of Appeals, in an opinion by Judge Quin, affirmed the death sentence. Johnson was killed when he went to Thomas' home to quell a disturbance, provoked by over indulgence in bottled "Juleps."
